SUMMARY

I am a Full Stack Software Engineer who just completed a comprehensive coding bootcamp from the University of Arizona. I am eager to work in my field of passion – technology! I have skills in front and back-end development and find success in working through both. I have built front-end applications using Tailwind, CSS, React & JavaScript and have found passion in identifying the best design for user experience. Using Node.js, MongoDB & MySQL I have produced results in building back-end architecture to develop, enhance and launch additional features. My background in management has given me the foundation to problem solve and cultivate positive results and outcomes through a high performing team. I enjoy operating through tasks with divine discontent to ensure constant improvement with a “one team” mentality in today's technology driven world.
